

You are applying to enter into a contract of insurance.

As such, you have a duty to disclose all relevant information. Failing to provide the insurer with full and accurate information could result in your insurance cover being cancelled and any claim for benefits could be denied, so it is vital you answer all questions fully and accurately.

Although we ask you specific questions via a personal statement, you should also tell us about any other information that will impact on the insurer's decision to offer you insurance cover, regardless of whether you deem it to be material or important. This includes current medical issues that require investigation, medication or treatment, even if a diagnosis has not been made.

This obligation applies to all insurance cover relating to this application, including amounts transferred from another fund or insurance arrangement. This means you could be placed in a position where you have no insurance cover if we later find you have not answered all questions fully and accurately.

Your Duty of Disclosure continues until you receive written confirmation your application has been accepted. You must contact the insurer if there is any change in your health or circumstances that are relevant to the insurer's decision on your application.

The full Duty of Disclosure is contained within this document and it is important you read it carefully. Having read the above, I declare the information I am about to provide is honest, true and complete.

Duty of disclosure

Before a person enters into a life insurance contract in respect of their life or the life of another person, they have a duty to tell the insurer anything that they know, or could reasonably be expected to know, may affect the insurer's decision to provide the insurance and on what terms.

The person entering into the contract has this duty of disclosure until the insurance is provided.

The person who has entered into the contract has the same duty before they extend, vary or reinstate the contract.

The person entering into the contract does not need to tell the insurer anything that:

- reduces the risk of the insurance; or
- is common knowledge; or
- the insurer knows or should know as an insurer; or
- the insurer waives the duty to tell the insurer about.

If the insurance is for the life of another person and that person does not tell the insurer something that they know, or could reasonably be expected to know, may affect the insurer's decision to provide the insurance and on what terms, this may be treated as a failure by the person entering into the contract to comply with their duty of disclosure.

If the person entering into the contract does not tell us something

In exercising the following rights, the insurer may consider whether different types of cover can constitute separate contracts of life insurance. If the insurer does, it may apply the following rights separately to each type of cover.

If the person entering into the contract does not tell the insurer anything they are required to, and the insurer would not have provided the insurance if they had been told, the insurer may avoid the contract within 3 years of entering into it.

If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract, it may, at any time, reduce the amount of insurance provided. This would be worked out using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if the person entering the contract had told the insurer everything they should have. However, if the contract has a surrender value or provides cover on death, the insurer may only exercise this right within 3 years of entering into the contract.

If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract or reduce the amount of insurance provided, it may, at any time, vary the contract in a way that places the insurer in the same position it would have been in if the person entering the contract had told the insurer everything they should have. However, this right does not apply if the contract has a surrender value or provides cover on death.

If the failure to comply with the duty of disclosure is fraudulent, the insurer may refuse to pay a claim and treat the contract as if it never existed.

Personal information we collect about you can include information such as your identity, contact details, gender, marital status, medical, life style and financial information. We collect information directly from you and from others such as, trustees, employers, service providers, family members or anyone that holds information relevant to your application or claim. We may be required by law to identify you or people who act on your behalf and we may verify the information provided. When we do so we may disclose your personal information. This collection and verification helps us to protect against fraud and other illegal activities. It's important you provide us with accurate and complete information. If you don't, we may not be able to provide you with the product or service that you are seeking such as processing your application or claim.

We collect, use and exchange your information so that we can:

- establish and verify your identity and assess applications for products and services
- price and design our products and services
- administer our products and services, including managing your application, cover and claims
- manage our relationship with you and to contact you, including by electronic means
- manage our risks (including by reinsurance) and help identify and investigate illegal activity, such as fraud
- conduct and improve our businesses and improve the customer experience
- comply with our legal obligations and assist government and law enforcement agencies or regulators
- identify and tell you about other products or services that we think may be of interest to you.

We may also collect, use and exchange your information in other ways permitted by law.

We may exchange your information with other members of the Commonwealth Bank group (CBA), so that the group may adopt an integrated approach to its customers. CBA members may use this information in the same way we use your information. We may exchange your information with third parties where this is permitted by law or for any of the purposes we use your information. Third parties include:

- trustees of superannuation funds and their administrators, your employer and former employers
- brokers, agents, advisers, attorneys and persons acting on your behalf
- medical and healthcare practitioners, claims-related providers such as assessors and investigators, insurance reference agencies, reinsurers, auditors and other insurers
- organisations to whom we may outsource certain functions e.g. IT
- any one that we reasonably believe may hold information relevant to your application, cover or claim.

Where we exchange your personal information with our service providers or agents confidentiality arrangements apply and they can use this personal information in the same way as we do. We may be required to disclose information by law, e.g. under Court Orders or Statutory Notices pursuant to taxation or social security laws or under laws relating to illegal activities, fraud, sanctions, anti-money laundering or counter terrorism financing.

We may send your information overseas. Overseas parties can include CBA companies or other parties who operate or hold data outside Australia. Where we send it to these parties, we make sure that appropriate data handling and security arrangements are in place. Information may be sent overseas to complete assessment or to manage your application or claim (such as when we are required to send information under reinsurance arrangements) or where this is required by law and regulation of Australia or another country. As well as reinsurers, overseas parties can include medical or rehabilitation practitioners or other parties. Australian law may not apply to some of these overseas parties. Information about what countries your information may be sent to by us is included in our Privacy Policy.

The law generally allows you to access your personal information and to have any inaccurate information corrected. Our information handling practices, information on how to make a complaint and how we deal with your complaint is described in our Privacy Policy which is available at www.commbank.com.au or upon request at any CBA branch.

Section I – Declaration

I have read the duty of disclosure in this Personal statement and I am aware of the consequences of non-disclosure.

I understand that the duty of disclosure continues after I have completed this statement until my application for cover has been accepted by The Colonial Mutual Life Assurance Society Limited ABN 12 004 021 809 (CMLA) in writing.

I authorise:

- the insurer to refer any statements that have been made in connection with my application for cover and any medical reports to other entities involved in providing or administering the insurance (for example reinsurers, medical consultants, legal advisers).
- the insurer and any person appointed by the insurer to obtain information on my medical claims and financial history from the Insurance Reference Association and any other body holding information on me.
- any hospital, doctor or other person who has treated or examined me to give to CMLA any information on my illness or injury, medical history, consultation, prescription or treatment or copies of all hospital or medical reports.

I declare that:

- the answers to all the questions and the declarations on this Personal Statement are true and correct (including those not in my own handwriting);
- I have not withheld any information which may affect CMLA's decision to provide insurance.
- I acknowledge that the answers I have provided, together with any special conditions, will form the basis of the contract of insurance.
- I have read and understood privacy of your personal information in Section F on page 10.
